This conference is planned for an interdisciplinary audience of healthcare professionals.

Program Overview and Objectives

The 2015 West Virginia Geriatrics Society Scientific Assembly, "A Tragic Story of Elder Abuse and Addiction: the Case of Lila Perkins" is designed for healthcare providers and others interested in learning about medical and behavioral health care provided to older adults with complex medical conditions. Sessions will address a wide array of the most current clinical treatment, program and policy issues facing providers, patients, families and caregivers. Attendees will receive meaningful information and tools to incorporate into their own work in caring for older adults suffering from abuse and neglect. After attending the Assembly attendees will be able to:

- ◆ Demonstrate new techniques to ask patients and caregivers about abuse or neglect.
- ◆ Demonstrate knowledge of when and where to report suspected adult abuse, neglect, and/or financial exploitation.
- ◆ Recognize risks versus benefits of medications to manage the behavioral and psychological symptoms of dementia.
- ◆ Utilize non-pharmacologic approaches to address behavior problems in dementia.
- ◆ Recognize the legal presumption of capacity to make one's own decisions.
- ◆ Demonstrate how to approach and work with patients who have been victims of elder abuse.
- ◆ Recognize the unique clinical presentation of substance abuse related problems in older adults.
